Abstract: This paper is a transcribed thirty-one-paged notebook of a compilation of three reports: (1) the property survey of the Spaniard Don Senen Palao, (2) notes of Fr. Julian Malumbres, OP and (3) letters of three surviving friars that left the Philippines after the Philippine Revolution of 1898. An English translation is provided and annotations are used as cross-references into contemporary works and later researches to further enrich and simplify the referencing of the information provided. The data on the ecclesiastical properties are tabulated for easier reading. A brief description of them and attached maps (scaled and unscaled) related to the towns are mentioned, as well as supplemental photographs to show a glimpse of the totality of the narrative of the notebook of Fr. Malumbres. This also opens the opportunities to revisit Cagayan due to the historical, architectural, and archaeological interest the notebook holds to further understand the scope of the Dominican properties in the province until 1898.

Introduction

The extent of the Spanish Empire in the Philippines is undeniable. One document showing the rich cultural patrimony of the Catholic Church in Cagayan is listed in a notebook² of the celebrated Cagayan historian Fr. Julian Malumbres, O.P. on the properties of the Dominican Fathers administered until 1898 gives us a detailed technical description of the buildings as well as the real estate they owned, now developed, some in ruins or fully replaced by the succeeding generations. This document precedes the monumental *Historias*³ of Fr. Malumbres by six or more years.

Included in the notebook are the descriptions from different informants and eyewitnesses during its writing. The year of the production of the document might have been in 1912, after the survey of properties of the Church in Cagayan and culminated into an inventory of properties (Propiedades) of the Dominicans after the Philippine Revolution of the 1890s.⁴ Public works such as roads and bridges, however, were not listed among the properties managed by the Dominican Fathers. Insofar, the notebook is silent in this regard.

Material and Method

The notebook of Fr. Malumbres on the Propiedades was copied as it appeared on the manuscript. However, along the typewritten lines there are minor corrections made by the writer such as commas and spelling of places and names which were supplied in handwritten form in pencil possibly by the hand of Fr. Malumbres himself.⁵ These additions and other corrections were included in the transcription line by brackets “[Text],” with the handwritten texts inside the brackets. Also, the original pages were also encoded and included in the transcription with the slash “/Page number/.”

² The notebook mentioned here, albeit a photocopy, is titled Propiedades de las iglesias que los Dominicos administraron en el valle de cagayan, hasta el año 1898 - the one in possession of the Cagayan Museum and Historical Research Center in Tuguegarao City, Cagayan. It is transcribed in this paper.

³ Fr. Julian Malumbres, OP wrote these classic works: Historia de Cagayan (1918), Historia de Isabela (1918), Historia de la Nuestra Señora de Piat (1918), and Historia de Nueva Vizcaya y provincia montañosa (1919). All were published by the University of Santo Tomas, Manila. Digitized copies of his works are available at the Miguel de Benavides Library and Archives of the University of Santo Tomas, Manila, Philippines, and also online digital copies in the Biblioteca Digital Hispanica of the Biblioteca Nacional de España of Spain. As one of the most authoritative collection of Cagayan Valley history, Malumbres' Historias were repeatedly cited by scholars such as Felix Keesing (1962), Florentino Hornedo (2002), Fr. Pedro Salgado (2002), and Regalado Trota Jose, to name a few.

⁵ It is unclear whether the corrections and additions were from Fr. Malumbres, or were later included in the texts.

The author believes that the translation in English⁶ is essential in the study of the ecclesiastical, military, and architectural history of Cagayan. The text itself is an important document in the history of property assessment in Cagayan. The author also believes that the English translation follows the context of the narrative of Fr. Malumbres as reported by Sr. Palao and others, though the author reserves and welcomes the possibility of future corrections and revisions. Since the data presented are estimates, there is still room for errors in measurements.

Some Spanish and local terms were retained to the English text. Names of people and places were also retained.

To further appreciate the efforts of the Spanish Colonial Government and of the Ecclesiastical Missions, the writer includes the early naval depictions and military surveys created by the Spanish Government available for each town, most were drawn in the 18th and 19th centuries. When town plans are not yet available, the early map and sketches of mission centers of Cagayan were included. To simplify the amount of data that were culled only in the notebook, they were tabulated as documented and surveyed.⁷ Also, contemporary works such as the monumental *Historia de Cagayan*⁸ and *Historia de Nueva Vizcaya y provincia montañosa*⁹ was referred to to cross reference the data available, particularly technical descriptions and was repeatedly cited by Prof. Regalado Trota Jose in his writings on Cagayan Valley's Church history.¹⁰ Additional photos were also included during the field work process of this research.

Results and Discussion

The notebook is a compilation of three separate reports: (1) the property survey of the Spaniard Don Senen Palao, (2) notes of Fr. Julian Malumbres,¹¹ and (3) letters of three surviving friars who left the Philippines after the Philippine Revolution of 1898 that are Fr. Isidoro Rodriguez, Fr. Victoriano Martinez, and Fr. Pedro Vicandi. The design of the reports are based on the survey starting from the northwestern towns of Cagayan: Claveria, Sanchez Mira, Pamplona, Abulug, going southward following the Abulug river on the province of Apayao and going back eastward to Aparri and Buguey. Afterwards, the report goes southward from Camalaniugan

⁶ Additionally, online softwares like DEEPL and Google Translate were used in this translation.

Table 1 shows the properties surveyed according to their geographical locations, that is, beginning from the (1) northwestern end of Cagayan to Buguey, (2) upstream the Abulug river are two ancient church sites Fotol and Capinatan, (3) from Camalaniugan down to Iguig, (4) the western Cagayan: Tuao, Mauanan, Malaueg, and Piat, (5) and Solana to Peñablanca (southern Cagayan).¹⁶

The key “field surveyor” or “assessor” of the properties as repeatedly mentioned was the Spaniard Sr. Senen Palao,¹⁷ a resident of Tuguegarao. An assessor checks the quality and conditions of buildings or lots, quantifying them, verifies the ownerships of these, and appraises their value. The salary during this extensive survey was 70 pesos per town¹⁸ visited around the years 1911 to 1912, however the actual span of time needed to assess the properties was not recorded. Among the properties Sr. Palao assessed to be submitted in the Tuguegarao registry of properties in the Cagayan province were Claveria, Pamplona, Sanchez-Mira, Abulug, Aparri, Buguey, Camalaniugan, Lalloc, Gattaran, Nassiping, Tabang, Santo Niño, Alcala, Amulung, Cordoba¹⁹, Baggao, Iguig, Tuao, Malaueg, Mauanan, Piat, Solana, Enrile, Tuguegarao, and Peñablanca and some in the province of Apayao.²⁰

¹⁶ Other scholars systematically arranged them by the date of their mission and architecture. Refer also to Fr. Pedro Salgado’s “Cagayan Valley and the Eastern Cordillera Volume 1” (2002) published by REX Commercial, Florentino Hornedo’s “On the Trail of Dominican Engineers, Artists, and Saints in the Cagayan Valley & Batanes published by the University of Santo Tomas Publishing House, and Manuel Noche’s work on “The Dominican Missionaries in the Cagayan Valley: Their Missions and Architecture” (2004) published by Philippiniana Sacra. In this case, the arrangement of the tabulated data is based on the survey route.

²⁰ The churches of Fotol (Pudtol) and Capinatan in barangay Matagusisi.

The assessment report was divided as follows: (a) Convent and Church; (b) Cemetery and Chapels, (c) Real Estate or Profitable Properties; and (d) Church Furniture, Ornaments, and Implements. Also, descriptions on the buildings' condition were included, whether it is beautiful, good, bad, or even rickety. Especially mentioned were the church implements that are unique in the Province.

The assessment also gives us a glimpse of what materials were used as per actual condition of the Church properties: (1) materiales ligeros (light materials) which was made largely of wood and cogon grass and (2) materiales fuertes (strong construction materials) which were made largely of masonry, wood, and roofed with iron sheets were repeatedly used to describe the buildings.

The estates' condition was also described. It included the profitable (for rent) buildings, planting fields and their crops, cemeteries, and even the kind of materials were used in fencing the field. Among the church estate being mentioned were the land into which the church itself stands, courtyards, and convent lot. One camarin (storehouse) was even recorded being rented by a Chinese businessman named Ignacio "Siu" Alvarado who paid the Church of Aparri 40 pesos per month and even financed the repairs of the camarin.²¹ Tambobo was also a curious word used in the notebook but is the same with a storehouse.

The estates' conditions, especially the cemeteries, seem to be in proportion with the population of a town. The sizes of the cemeteries were also tabulated. The presence of these planned cemeteries in each town shows the good sanitation condition and practice of burying the dead during the Spanish Colonial Period. It is also noteworthy that the churches, convents, and rectories reflect the economic conditions of the parishes. One such case is the Capinatan church grounds which costed 6000 pesos. The record also showed that funding was possible with even at the Parish Priest's own pocket.²² Among the reports were the famous brick kilns (hornos). These hornos, as reported, can also be profitable – to be rented by the people. However, the record did not include an estimate on how much it would cost to rent a horno. An interesting discovery recorded in the notebook is a brick manufacturing machine installed by Fr. Casimiro Gonzales of Alcala.²³ Could this be the machine that manufactured the evenly sized bricks of the Tuguegarao Cemetery fence and portal?

²² Ibid. p. 6.

²³ Ibid. p. 24. In careful inspection of the brick tiles, the dimensions are 230mm length, 110mm width, and 70mm thick, and includes a mark "VIGAN" and "FABRICA DE VICENTE LLOPIS" on both of their indents. Perhaps, the brick molds used available at the time were with these marks and were mass produced on site. The same brick tile is available for public view at the Cagayan Museum and Historical Research Center, in Tuguegarao City.

Architecturally, the technical nature of this notebook is one of the most important archival documents for Cagayan's ecclesiastical structures. For example, the church ground of Iguig is a candidate for being in an ideal site plan which is situated on a hill. A notable feature of the Iguig church grounds is an old well that was built of bricks which is a source of potable water and even used for the public to wash their clothes.²⁴ One interesting account is the detailed description of a typical Church grounds included in the near-end portion of the Propiedades notebook. It is the letter of Fr. Isidoro Rodriguez, O.P. who vividly described the Buguey church ground plan and even described the convents' shape of "7"²⁵, similar or an L-shaped building. Even interesting is Fr. Victoriano Martinez's letter that describes the Malaueg convent as "hammer" shaped, also an L-shaped building.²⁶

Conclusion

The abovementioned report on the data gives us a glimpse of the extent of interest of the Spanish Colonial Government, in this case the Dominican Missions, to the Province of Cagayan. Based on the information available only in the notebook, it provides crucial and intriguing details on the history of the Dominican Missions, the people involved, technologies, building typologies, and ruins. For example, the line *masonry ruins of San Juan de Masi on a hill, about a kilometer away*²⁷ of the old mission of Pata and other ruins for that matter provides archival evidence on the existence of such structures directing professionals such as archaeologists to verify and validate the said sites. With these said ruins, which are among the earliest missions to be founded, it could provide fresh insights on the early life of the Dominican Missions and probably even the response of the indigenous people in their message of Catholic faith.

Similarly, cemeteries have been described in the notebook in almost every town mentioned and can be confirmed based on existing archival records (e.g. the survey maps of Dons. Ardanaz and others) which can be resurveyed and revisited to as a basis for future historical and archaeological explorations.

While this paper has shown a plethora of information on the said Dominican properties, it cannot fully attach and include all photographs, floor plans, and lot surveys that can reinforce the same data shown. However, this provides baseline historical evidence on the ownership of these structures.

²⁷ Ibid. p. 23.

Other interesting points herein can be further enriched in the future, and the researcher intends to do so. For instance, contemporary land surveys referred here can be further analyzed and merit separate studies on its own. Finally, this encourages the reader to dig deeper (archival or literal) into the scale and magnitude of Spain's undertaking in the missionary as well as military expeditions in Cagayan. May this historical interpretation open the opportunities in research and historical appreciation of the writings of Fr. Julian Malumbres and other Spanish texts to gradually erode La Leyenda Negra.^{PS}

Observacion General

Son propiedad de la iglesia en Filipinas

1.0 Todos los solares de las iglesias, patios y cementerios adjuntos, cercados o sin cercar, y los terrenos contiguos a las casas parroquiales, generalmente cercados con mampostería o seto. /2/

Sobre cuyos solares jamas se ha solidó reclamar, ni han pagado canon de ninguno genero, salvo algunos casos particulares, como por ejemplo aquellos puntos en que de antemano el terreno era de algún propietario y solo cedio al uso del solar para levantar la iglesia y demás, como sucede en las provincias limítrofes a Manila.

2.0 Segun las leyes de Indias no se concedia la ereccion de pueblo alguno nuevo, o desmembracion de alguna matriz, si no tenían construidas, convento, iglesia, tribunal y sus adyacentes. En lo que el Estado concedia los solares que la iglesia necesitaba para los fines eclesiásticos de los ministros de la Religión Católica.

3.0 Aun respecto de los particulares, los terrenos solían ser, primi capientis, no habiendo contradicción, como no solia haber la, por parte de los municipios. La iglesia, por consiguiente, no habia de ser de peor condición que los particulares.

Santiago Capdevila y entrenado a principios de julio de 1898, un mes antes de la revolución de Cagayan.

Sanchez-Mira

Lo mismo, si bien los edificios eran provisionales.

Pamplona

Casa, iglesia, patio, cementerio y solares de iglesia y convento. Al Norte existen las ruinas de mampostería de San Juan de Masi en un cerro, distante como un kilómetro.

Apayaos

Aquí gasto la Corporación dominicana en restaurar el convento antiguo, 6000 pesos, según cuentas hechas por el último misionero Fr. Alfredo Colinas. En este territorio existen las ruinas de convento, iglesia, patio, cementerio y adyacentes, según uso antiguo, tanto en Fotol, a unas cuatro leguas de Abulug, como en Capinatan, a unas seis. En este punto restauro el P. Colinas el Convento.

Abulug

Como Claveria, y además una hermosa huerta en la que planto muchos cocos, cafeto, y cacaos su último parroco, Fr. Jose Brugues entre 1894-1898. /24/

Aparri

Como Claveria, pero tiene un cementerio antiguo junto a la iglesia y otro hecho por Fr. Julian Malumbres en 1894 en el barrio de Santo Tomás. Tiene además el solar de la iglesia Antigua con un camarín alquilado hasta 1898 por un Chino que daba 40 pesos mensuales a la iglesia.

Tuguegarao

Casa, iglesia, patio, cementerio y adyacentes espaciosos según los grandes planes del célebre P. Fr. Antonio Lobato, que tambien hizo calles largas y anchas en el pueblo. El P. Corujedo construyo tambien una casa regular perteneciente a la parroquia, aunque tengo entendido la costeó con fondos de la Vicaría, y no de la iglesia.

Observacion

Existen aún restos de los antiguos edificios de San Jose de Cabicungan, cerca de Claveria; de Sta. Maria Magdalena de Pata, cerca de Sanchez-Mira; de San Vicente Ferrer, en Lalloc, llamado, San Vicente de Tocolana; de San Miguel de Nassiping, que se restableció como parroquia independiente de Gattaran en 1896, de Santa Cruz de Gumpat cerca de Malaueg.

Tiene además de lo dicho una ermita dedicada a San Jacinto, de materiales fuertes junto al colegio de los PP. Dominicos. (Es una cosa que debía gestionarse para el colegio, en compensación de la cession de Conventos en 1890 y los gastos de Apayaos hechos por el P. Colinas), Y el Santuario de Piat en compensación de lo que pertenece a la orden en valle de Cagayan, y si lo dan con la parroquia de Piat, mejor.

Yo, Fr. Isidro Rodriguez O.P. párroco que fui desde Agosto de 1897 hasta de 1898 de la parroquia de Santa Ana de Buguey, del pueblo de Buguey, provincial de Cagayan, obispado de Nueva Segovia: en virtud de la atenta comunicación de VR, fecha 2 de setiembre del presente año de 1911, pasó a manifestar a Norte lo siguiente:

En el pueblo de Buguey había pertenecientes, a la iglesia las fincas siguientes: 1.0 Una iglesia de mampostería, sus dimensiones calculo que seran unos 50 metros de larga por 30 de ancha.

2.0 Al Oriente de la iglesia una casa parroquial o convento también de mampostería en parte hasta el techo y en parte hasta el primer piso; es en forma de 7; tiene la misma longitud que la iglesia; de ancho, por la parte más estrecha tendrá 15 metros, y donde forma el 7 que es por donde se une a la iglesia /28/ tendrá 27 metros de ancha. En el espacio que deja el 7 entre la iglesia y el convento está la sacristía y una huertacita de unos 20 metros de larga por 12 de ancha.

3.0 Al Sur de la Iglesia y convento y contiguo a las mismas hay un patio que tendrá 60 metros de ancho por otro 60 de largo está Cercado de pared, pero destruida. Entre este patio y la iglesia no se permitía el paso de caballerías ni de carabaos.

A todo lo largo del convento al Oriente y contiguo al mismo hay un pedacito de tierra donde estaba la cocina, un huertecito y la entrada al convento: tendrá 6 metros de ancho.

Todas estas fincas tienen los límites siguientes: Al oriente el camino para el mar, al Sur una calle, al Occidente una calle, y al Norte otras calles, todas innombradas, o ignoro sus nombres.

5.0 Al Oriente del convento hay un edificio de mampostería de unos 10 metros largo por otros 10 de ancho destinado para guardar el palay y el maíz. Y al Norte de este tambobo hay un pozo con paredes de Piedra y techo de cogon: entre estos dos solares y el convento pasa el camino que va al mar.

6.0 Al Occidente de la iglesia y pueblo y a unos dos kilómetros de distancia hay un terreno cuadrado de unos 90 metros cada lado destinado para cementerio, este cercado con estacas de madara. Todos sus alrededores era terreno inculto.

De alhajas no se leas que habria; solamente recuerdo que había cálices, copones, ropas y demás recados necesarios para la celebración de la Santa Misa y de todos colores.

Es todo cuanto puedo informar á V. sobre el particular.

M.R.P. Provincial

Ocaña 16 de Octubre de 1911

Estimado P.V. Con gusto le remito la siguiente relación de los antecedentes que desea conocer y que, al presente me acuerdo, como Cura Párroco de Malaueg al estallar la revolución.

I

(a) Pueblo de Malaueg, Provincia de Cagayan.

(b) La extensión del solar donde están levantados los edificios de la iglesia y Convento vendría a ocupar aproximadamente unos quinientos metros de Norte o Sur, y unos ciento de Este o Oeste. La iglesia que está erigida en dicho terreno es de forma rectangular y tendrá unos veinte metros de larga por unos cinco de ancha. El convento tambien enclavado en dicho solar y contiguo a la iglesia tiene la forma de martillo y vendrá a tener unos 15 metros de largo por la parte del Este y por la parte Sur otros tantos poco más o menos, y de ancho por ambos lados de seis o ocho metros.

En la parte a que corresponde la entreda de la iglesia, se encuentra el atrio de la misma y viene a tener la forma de un cuadrado y viene o medir unos diez metros por lado próximamente. (c) Los límites del terreno, lo mismo que los de la iglesia y convento son; por el Norte la escuela de niños, por el Oeste bosque y por el Sur con una sementera de unos ochenta metros de /30/ largo por unos veinte de ancha a orillas del río de nominado Matalag y perteneciente a la iglesia.

(d) El terreno citado carece de cerco si se exceptúa el atrio de la Iglesia que es de mampostería y la sementera cuyo cerco era de caña.

La Iglesia y convento eran de mampostería.

II

(1) Hacia la parte Norte de la iglesia a la salida del pueblo y como a un kilómetro de distancia de la misma poco más o menos se encuentra el cementerio que tiene casi la figura de un cuadrado y media de unos ochenta e cien metros por lado. El cerco de todo el era de materiales ligeros que se renovaban, de vez en cuando.

III

La Iglesia poseía una sementera, de que se hace mención anteriormente en la letra.

(e) y que el informante sembraba de maíz.

Los vasos sagrados de plata pertenecientes a la iglesia y que recuerdo son: dos cálices sin copon, una custodia, unas crismeras, y unas vinageras, todo lo cual estaba dorado tambien.

Estos son los antecedentes que puede darle el menor de sus súbditos.

Prosesetario de la Provincia

Ocaña 30 Octubre 1911

Estimado P. En contestación a su atento oficio debo manifestarle, queda Parroquia Misión de Baggao, tenía un Cementerio cercado de caña y una ermita. Después pareció mal al pueblo, el sitio de la ermita, y quemaron un cañaberal y allí levantaron la Iglesia y estaba un servidor levantado el convento con maderas cedidas por el Estado. La iglesia tenía un cerco de caña o palma brava, según creo. Tenía una custodia y varias casullas y algunas ropas y enseres propias. No se de fijo, si la propiedad del suelo, es precaria, imperfecta, o completa. Para enterarse perfectamente y tener informes verídicos, puede acudir a Don Agustín Católico y a Don Rafael Católico.

Properties of the churches that the Dominicans administered in the Cagayan Valley, until 1898.²⁹

Note:

As indicated in the heading of this notebook, the data in the contents are a supplement to the contents in another notebook on the subject. They have been taken from the letters that the last [parish priests who regent the parishes and missions sent] from Spain, America, China and other places where they are found and whose originals exist in the same file as this brochure.

²⁹ This year marked the end of Patronato Real in the Philippines.

Manila March 22, 1912.

Fr. Julian Malumbres

By commission of N. P. Provincial and using the data administered by word of mouth and in writing, we made the attached work of which three copies were made by typewriter: one was given to Sr. Delegate App. Msgr. Ambrosio Agius for the use of the respective Prelates to whose dioceses the towns belong. We reserve two in case something might happen.

This work is the effect of a conference that the Regular Prelates had with the Sr. Delegate, so that we will reveal what we know about the churches, convents and accessories from 1898 on when they expelled us from the parishes.

Manila August 22, 1911.

Fr. Julian Malumbres

General Observation

These are owned by the church in the Philippines:

1.0 All adjoining church lots, courtyards and cemeteries, fenced or unfenced, and the grounds adjoining the convent, usually fenced with masonry or hedge.

On whose plots it has never been used to claim, nor have they paid a fee of any kind, except for some particular cases, such as those points in which the land belonged to some owner beforehand and I only give in to the use of the plot to build the church and others, as what happens in the provinces bordering Manila.

2.0 According to the Laws of the Indies, the erection of any new town, or the separation of any, was not granted if they did not have a convent, church, court and its adjacent buildings. In what the State granted the lots that the church needed for the ecclesiastical purposes of the ministers of the Catholic Religion.³⁰

3.0 Even with respect to individuals, the lands used to be, primi capientis,³¹ there being no contradiction, as there used to be no contradiction, on the part of the municipalities. The church, therefore, was not to be of a worse condition than the private individuals.

³⁰ See Gerard Lico and Lorelei de Viana. "Regulating Colonial Spaces (1565-1944). A Collection of Laws, Decrees, Proclamations, Ordinances, Orders and Directives on Architecture and the Built Environment During the Colonial Eras in the Philippines." National Commission for Culture and the Arts, Philippines. (2017) Pages 21-24 presents a translated version of Las Leyes de las Indias that codified the foundation of towns in Spanish colonies originally written by Philip II in 1573.

³¹ Based from the Latin expression res nullius est primi capientis or "the thing that belongs to no one belongs to the first who takes it" often referred to in the principle of property rights. See also <https://www.infopedia.pt/dicionarios/locucoes-expressoess>.

Ecclesiastical properties of Cagayan of Luzon

Claveria

Town of the province of Cagayan. It has a good convent and church of strong materials, and a courtyard for processions of about fifty meters per side. All surrounded by communal lands, and fenced with hedge.

Cemetery and Visitas. A half-hectare cemetery surrounded by hedgerows. Near the Cabicungan River or Claveria there are some remains of masonry from the old mission of San Jose de Cabicungan.

Real estate properties. The site of the convent and church, patio and other adjacent areas were yet to be built as a newly founded town. All on sandy terrain and close to the beach. There were no private constructions in its vicinity in 1898.

People who can testify. The Spaniard Don Senen Palao, currently a resident in Tuguegarao, and head of the Insular in said town, was the one who toured all the towns of Cagayan and several of Isabela on the commission of the Cagayan registrar, Don Facundo Soto, when registering each and every one of the towns of the mentioned provinces. Maybe I will keep a draft.

Furniture and ornaments. Both the Church and the convent had only ordinary furniture and ornaments, as a recently founded town.

Patronage. Its patron is San Jose.

Sanchez - Mira

Convent and church. Town of the province of Cagayan of more recent foundation than that of Claveria. It only had a convent and church of light and temporary materials. The patio and other adjacent areas were under construction and everything would have about a hectare and a half of land. Surrounded by nameless streets and private houses whose names we do not know.

Cemetery and Visita. The cemetery was fenced in with a palisade hedge, and would have about fifty meters on a side.

Person who can testify. The aforementioned Spanish that we cited in Claveria, and Don Miguel Arlos, a principalia³² of the town of Pamplona.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings of the convent were very few and ordinary, and so were the ornaments and jewelry of the church.

Real estate properties. It did not have any farm of income or without it, outside of the premises that the convents used for a small garden, stables and other adjacent ones.

³² See also "Principales" in the Glossary of Terms.

Remains. In the neighborhood of Pata there are remains of masonry from the old mission of Santa María Magdalena de Pata.³³ The patron saint of Sanchez-Mira is San Roque.

Pamplona

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Saint Peter the Martyr. It has a convent and church of strong materials. Masonry fenced yard. The perimeter of the site with the stables, garden land and other adjacent old-fashioned town houses, and with the patio, will have over two hectares.

Cemetery and Visita. The cemetery is on the cusp of the immediate hill, it will have about fifty meters per side, and it is fenced off.

About a kilometer to the north there are remains of masonry from the old parish of San Juan Nepomuceno de Masi in an elevated area.

Real estate properties. We understand that when registering the aforementioned Sr. Senen and Sr. Soto, this parish owned some land for sowing palay. Reports can be requested from Sr. Senen, and the one indicated in Sanchez-Mira, Don Manuel Arlos.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings of the Convent were few and ordinary. The church had some beautiful ornaments.

The music band belonged to the parish priest and was quite famous in Cagayan.

Adjacent. The entire perimeter was isolated from the rest of the population except for the southern part that had private houses, whose owners we do not know.

Abulug

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santo Tomas de Aquino. The Convent is regular and hammer-like.³⁴ The church is quite capable, but of light materials; only in the chancel there is some masonry. The entire perimeter including the stable, orchard and other accessories will have about two hectares. The courtyard in the plaza, like the others is common in the Philippines, will have about fifty meters per side.

Cemetery and Visitas. The cemetery will have about seventy meters per side and is fenced with hedge. Towards the west, the ruins of the old church and convent, which were in the neighborhood of Danili,³⁵ or old town, are found pushed back in the Abulug river. One kilometer towards the neighborhood of Santa Cruz, the last Dominican priest, Fr. Jose Brugues, began the construction of a new church.

³³ See the detailed survey of D. Genaro Ruiz Gimenez y Novella & D. Julio Ardanaz y Crespo. "Itinerario de Aparri á Claveria... En la Campaña Topográfica de 1891." Biblioteca Virtual de Defensa. Gobierno de España. (1891) In this survey, the ruins of Pata was identified as "Ruinas de la Iglesia de Pata." (see Appendix 1) This is the ruins along the boundary between the present town of Sanchez Mira and Claveria. It is locally known as "Nagsimbaanan" (literally, "where there was once a church") at barangay Namuac, Sanchez Mira.

³⁴ Or "hammer-shaped," referring to its floor plan.

Real estate properties. Near the bank of the Abulug river on its right bank and near the neighborhood of Santa Filomena, the aforementioned Fr. Brugues plowed a beautiful orchard and covered many coconuts, cocoa and coffee trees. Inquire Sr. Senen.

Furniture and ornaments. It had little ordinary furniture. Some ornaments were beautiful. Ask the aforementioned Manuel Arlos from Pamplona. The good brass band was also from the parish.

Adjacent. It was completely isolated to the Convent and Church; and we believe the same of the aforementioned garden.

Apaya³⁶

In the militarized territory, called Apayaos, in the time of the Spanish government, the old missions of Nuestra Señora del Rosario de Fotol and San Lorenzo de Capinatan are located.

Fotol. This mission is located between Abulug and Capinatan on the left bank of the Abulug river and next to the Fotol estuary. There are still remains of the old convent church space and accessories that were used in those times. It was built by the Dominican Fr. Pedro Jimenez between 1683 and 1687.³⁷

Capinatan. About two and a half leagues above Fotol and on the left bank of the Abulug or Apayaos river there are also the remains of masonry from the old church and convent of San Lorenzo de Capinatan. In 1895 to 1898 the Dominican Friar Alfredo Colinas³⁸ built a convent made of wood with shells on the ruins of the old one. It cost them about 6,000 pesos, from his own money, and alms from the Corporation of brothers who were in a comfortable position. This convent was roofed with iron and was occupied for a few days, before the revolutionary Tagalogs arrived in Cagayan. For this reason it was unfurnished and the church only had some old ornaments.

³⁵ Locally known as “Dana-ili” in today’s town of Abulug. Literally, in Ibanag (which is the main language of Abulug) it means “old town.” See also Bugarin’s Diccionario de la Lengua Ibanag 1854 for the word entry “DANA” and “ILI.”

³⁸ Ibid. p. 331.

Aparri³⁹

Convent and Church. Town belonging to Cagayan, under the patronage of San Pedro Telmo. It has a beautiful church and convent, a wooden bell tower lined with iron and separated from the church.⁴⁰ The perimeter of the parish buildings is isolated by the streets Alfonso, Pasión and Malumbres and is bordered by the west by the Pon street and the school for children. (Today the streets have other names)

Cemetery and Visitas. It has an old cemetery surrounded by masonry next to the church and Alfonso street and the campanile has its own piece of land. It also has a new hedge-fenced cemetery in the barrio of Santo Tomas, built by Fr. Julian Malumbres in 1896. This one has a hundred meters per side. It is isolated in all of its sides.

Real estate properties. In the walls of the old church there is a wooden Camarin with cane partitions, rented until 1898 by the Chinese Ignacio Alvarado or Siu. He took care of all the repairs due to damages and gave the church 40 pesos each month as recorded in the church's account book.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings of the convent were quite good and in proportion to the grandeur of the convent. The clothes and jewelry of the church were few and ordinary.

Courtyard. In addition to what was said in the first paragraph, it had a patio of about thirty meters in square in front of the church, isolated by the town square and bell tower. The via crucis is surrounded by Pon, Malumbres, Pasión and Alfonso streets, ending next to the bell tower.

Buguey⁴¹

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santa Ana. It has a convent and masonry church:⁴² a fenced courtyard of the same, a barn to store palay the others, made on the outskirts of the town by Father Juan Gomez around 1896, surrounded by hedge and it will have half a hectare.

Real estate properties. It does not have any known assets under this.

³⁹ See Regalado Trota Jose. "A Visual Documentation of Fil-Hispanic Churches Part XXIII: The Church of San Pedro Telmo, Aparri, Cagayan." PHILIPPINIANA SACRA, Vol. LV, No. 164 (January-April, 2020) pp. 125-160. (2020)

⁴⁰ Ibid. p. 147. Jose shows archival photos of the masonry façade of Aparri church, including the wood belltower built by Fr. Malumbres.

⁴¹ See Regalado Trota Jose, "A Visual Documentation of Fil-Hispanic Churches Part XXIV: The Church of Santa Ana, Buguey, Cagayan." PHILIPPINIANA SACRA, Vol. LV, No. 165 (May-August, 2020) pp. 307-356. (2020)

⁴² Ibid. 339. Jose presents an architectural plan by Ar. Javier Galvan Guijo of the Buguey church.

Furniture and ornaments. The furniture of the convent and jewelry of the church were ordinary and in proportion to the poverty of said parish. The little band was also from the parish priest.

Adjacent. All church property is isolated from other owners. Only the barn is next to a well where the people are supplied with water and washed their clothes.

Informant. As Sr. Senen Palao took the steps to register it, he must have known what belongs to the church.

Camalaniugan⁴³

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of San Jacinto. The old convent was covered by the Cagayan River and is directly by the walls of the church.⁴⁴ This is masonry but not massive. It has a fenced masonry patio. The new convent is on the other side of the road from where the church is. It is built on part of the old walls with good timber. The perimeter of everything will exceed two hectares and it has a piece of land in which vegetables have almost always been grown. As you enter the town there is a stone oven that looks like a castle.⁴⁵ It must have been built to make the church and convent.

Cemetery and chapels. If memory do not fail us, it has a masonry cemetery next to the church, and another at a distance, surrounded by hedges.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings of the convent were few but quite good. The church ornaments were regular, but there was a good white lantern. The music band belonged to the priest.

Adjacent. The church and patio are separated by the river and one or two roads. The convent is also isolated by several unnamed streets.

Inscription. The Spaniard Sr. Senen took the steps to register everything in the Cagayan property registry as indicated at the beginning.

⁴³ See Regalado Trota Jose, "A Visual Documentation of Fil-Hispanic Churches, Part XXI: The Church of San Jacinto de Polonia in Camalaniugan, Cagayan." PHILIPPINIANA SACRA, Vol. LIV, No. 162 (May-August, 2019) pp. 317-350. (2019)

⁴⁴ See D. Genaro Ruiz Gimenez y Novelle y D. Julio de Ardanaz. "Itinerario de Ilagan a Aparri.... En la Campaña Topográfica de 1891." Biblioteca Virtual de Defensa. Gobierno de España. (1891) Interestingly, the survey of Gimenez and Ardanaz on the church grounds of Camalaniugan shows that the apse was in the south due to the shape of the crossing. (see Appendix 1) The present condition of the church is in ruins, unroofed, and a portion of the southern wall is removed, probably even before the concreting of the slope protection structure was made.

⁴⁵ The present visible dimension of this horno 9.00 meters by 8.60 meters, with a height of 8.30 meters. The thickness of the base of the wall is 2.23 meters.

Lalloc⁴⁶

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santo Domingo de Guzman. It has a church, convent, courtyard and cemetery adjoining the church, all made of masonry.⁴⁷ The convent was rebuilt in wood on the old walls. The perimeter of everything must exceed two hectares and also has a piece of orchard with some trees. It is isolated by unnamed roads, in the time to which we refer, that is, in 1898 and keep this in mind from now on, because today it is more used to name streets.

Cemetery and Chapels. In addition to the old one that we have mentioned, it has another hedge fence made around 1898 by Father Pedro Linacero in the vicinity of the San Vicente neighborhood. Here there are remains of masonry from the convent, church, east of the old town and parish of San Vicente Ferrer de Tocolana.

Real estate properties. We are not aware that it owns similar assets.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings in the parish were fair. And among the church ornaments there were some beautiful ones. The church of Lalloc like the previous one of Camalaniugan and some other of Cagayan had silver racks on the main altar. Also an old organ.

Adjacent. We indicate that all the property of the church is quite well marked and isolated from other properties. Inquire of the aforementioned Sr. Senen.

Gattaran⁴⁸

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santa Catalina Virgen y Martir. The church is of masonry although not massive. The wooden convent is built on the walls of the old one. It will have two hectares from the entire perimeter including the cemetery next to the church.⁴⁹

Cemetery and Chapels. It only has the cemetery next to the church according to old custom. And it is quite small.

Real estate properties. It does not own real estate of any kind in that sense.

⁴⁶ See Regalado Trota Jose. "A Visual Documentation of Fil-Hispanic Churches Part XX: The Churches of Lallo and Tocolana in Cagayan." PHILIPPINIANA SACRA, Vol. LIV, No. 161 (January-April, 2019) pp. 69-124. (2019)

⁴⁹ Ibid. p. 522-523 shows architectural plans, albeit minute, and archival photos of this church. The map showing the church estimates the location of the cemetery along the apse side of the church, which would make sense since the church is oriented parallel to the Cagayan River.

Furniture and jewelry. The furnishings of the convent were worth little and the ornaments of the church the same.

Adjacent. All church property is fairly well determined.

Nassiping⁵⁰

A town in Cagayan that was formerly the mother of Gattaran, but was later became a visita by the latter. It preserves remains of masonry from its old buildings similar to those of Gattaran. This town is located next to the confluence of the Chico river and with the Great river (Rio Grande de Cagayan) and on the left bank of the latter. It is dedicated to Saint Michael the Archangel and was a point of great interest until the foundation of Fulay, today Alcala.

Consult with Sr. Senen.

Alcala

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santa Filomena Virgen y Martir. It has a grandiose brick convent with a courtyard in the center. The church with three naves is also great. Its perimeter is quite defined by roads and by being with all its accessories on a hill and below.⁵¹ It also had a dressing room and the land where it was located, with a brick kiln and a steam engine⁵² for the same purpose of making bricks.

Cemetery and Chapels. The cemetery that it must have, given the commercial importance and others of said town about a hundred meters per side, was surrounded by hedge.

Real estate properties. It does not have any assets of this nature, unless the aforementioned brick kiln is usable and they would like to rent it.

Furniture and jewelry. Both the convent furniture and ornaments were quite ordinary.

Adjacent. We have said that the church farms are marked out by unnamed roads that in 1898, but later the municipality has dealt with it, named with Filipino revolutionaries, as other towns in Cagayan have done.

⁵⁰ See Regalado Trota Jose. “A Visual Documentation of Fil-Hispanic Churches, Part XXII: The Church of San Miguel Arcángel, Nassiping, Cagayan.” PHILIPPINIANA SACRA, Vol. LIV, No. 163 (September-December, 2019) pp. 537-580. (2019)

This survey shows the positioning of the church and the convent with reference with the rectilinear roads (See Appendix 1).

⁵² Perhaps, this is the only instance where a steam engined machine for brick-making was mentioned in the history of brick masonry tradition in Cagayan.

Informant. Sr. Senen could ask the family of Doña Maximiana del Rosario, Stewardess of the church of Aparri and resident in this town. She is a trustworthy person and a fervent Catholic.

Amulung

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Nuestra Señora de las Victorias. The upper part of the convent is of wood and the rest is masonry.⁵³ It's rickety. The church is made of wood with two small bell towers also made of wood. The courtyard unlike other towns is not made of masonry. The perimeter of the main buildings and accessories exceeds two hectares.

Cemetery and Visitas. The cemetery is square about seventy meters per side and fenced with hedge.

In 1897 the neighborhood of Baggao, located on the left bank of the said Great river (Rio Grande de Cagayan) and the Cordoba river, which is the left bank of it, was separated. These new parishes only had temporary buildings made of light materials.

Real estate properties. We are not aware that it owns any such property.

Furniture and jewelry. The furnishings were rather ordinary, and so were the ornaments and sacred vessels. We understand that Cordoba had a few very good pieces of furniture, brought by its first and last parish priest, Fr. Mariano Velasco.

Adjacent. The ecclesiastical estates of Amulung like those of Alcala are quite well defined by streets and by being on a hill with its slope.

Informant. The last parish priest and Vicar Forane (Q.E.D.) Fr. Dionisio Casas,⁵⁴ is the one who made the contract to give 70 pesos for each town of Cagayan to Sr. Soto, and he commissioned Sr. Senen to collect data.

Ecclesiastical Property

Additions according to the data re-administered by the last surviving Spanish priests. The page that each town is cited corresponds to that of the typewriter notebook that was given to Mgr. Aguis, Delegate of His Holiness in the Philippine Islands.

⁵³ Op. cit. Gimenez & Ardanaz. "Ilagan a Aparri." This survey also showed the positioning of the church and the convent with reference with the rectilinear roads (See Appendix 1).

Cagayan Province

Alcala, p. 11, has a plot of land behind the convent that measures 100 x 100 meters, fenced with the hedge of shrubs that is customary in Cagayan. (b) The atrium of the church and convent forms a square in front of them. (c) The indicated lands are perfectly demarcated, to the south by the general highway of the province; to the East by the causeway called Escolta; to the North by a tribunal; and to the West with several private lots, whose names the informant does not know. (d) About the foregoing, jewelry and others, you can ask Doña Ana Ponce and Doña Barbara Catral, very respectable people.

Peñablanca, p. 20

(a) The site for ecclesiastical buildings had one hectare, located on a plateau facing the East. The people gave it for this purpose. (b) In the neighborhoods of Dodan and Peñablanca it had chapels made of light materials, whose plots belonged to the respective neighborhoods but they ceded usufruct and quasi possession to the Parish Priest. (c) The clothes and ornaments were loaned by its parent-town Tuguegarao. (d) Regarding what concerns this town, Don Jacinto Turingan and Don Agustin Saquing and their families can report, who worked hard to separate it from its parent-town.⁵⁵

Tuao, p. 17

Limits. The house, church and accessories are bounded by streets, Escolta; another of the court, which divides them near the church on the side of the courtyard; a transversal street to the South; another east and west to the cemetery.⁵⁶ The first are for communal use; the latter is owned by the church and was only made to access the cemetery. In this, Fr. Ildefonso Barba⁵⁷ built a chapel.

Estate. A field for corn, fenced with cane and located to the West another for the same smaller to the East. In it there was a house for musicians.

Another field was disused a few years ago with the consent of the town, to the west, to complete the road from the trial court to the church.

Adjacent. To the East with the property of Don Doroteo Canapi; to the South with that of Don Fernando Magalet. To the west with a neighborhood and uncultivated fields as far as the cemetery reaches. To the North with the court and sites reserved for schools.

Informants. They can be Don Jacinto, former Captain, Don Fernando Daquiel, Don Alejo Magalat, Don Doroteo Canapi and others.

⁵⁵ That is, Tuguegarao.

⁵⁶ See D. Julio de Ardanaz, D. Luis Fontana, and D. Felino Aguilar. "Itinerario de Tuguegarao a Malaveg (Cagayan) ... en la campaña topográfica de 1892." Biblioteca Virtual de Defensa. Gobierno de España. (1892) This detailed map shows the church grounds of Tuao and with reference to the rectilinear road of the town center.

⁵⁷ Op. cit. del Manzano. "Biografica." p. 1140.

Ornaments. They are worth about 3000 pesos, they include ordinary chalices, one of silver and the custody of the same.

Atrium. The atrium of the church is outside the square of the other buildings, with transversal streets; to the West street, Escolta; from North to South another two that connect the church with the trial court and are for communal use.

Buguey, p. 7⁵⁸

Vegetable plot. To the northern part of the church and convent is the garden, which is bordered to the north by a street; to the south the same church and convent; to the East another street: and to the West, a communal land, with a fence of reeds.

To the West of the church and adjacent to it, there is a piece of land, owned by the church, about ten meters by its width and length. It was a cemetery in the olden times.

The church, convent, atrium and orchard form a square, which is bordered by streets to the North, South and East to the West, communal lands.

To the East of the convent, in front of it and on the other side of the road there is a plot of about 25 meters square and in it there is a well and a small masonry building that served as a tambobo (or granary). Everything belonged to the convent.

Solana p. 19

The site of the church and convent will be about 140 meters long by about 60 meters wide.⁵⁹ The atrium and square of the church will have about eighty meters square.⁶⁰

The previous buildings are marked out by four streets. They were enclosed with woven reed and tied to living trees. Vehicles passing through the square between the church and the convent were allowed. And the same for the Eastern and Western road.

There are two cemeteries, an old one measuring about sixty square meters, fenced off with reed woven into living trees. Another modern one of about ninety meters per side fenced with stakes and woven cane.

Consult with Captain Jacobo Caronan.

⁶⁰ Or, 80 meters by 80 meters.

Lalloc, p. 9⁶¹

Site. The site where the convent, church, orchard and old cemetery are located, will have about one hectare of land. And it borders to the North with a lot and a private house; to the East and South with streets of the town; to the West with the general road.

Atrium. It does not have it in some rigor because, being near the river, the general road passes a few meters from the church. Almost the entire site is surrounded by masonry, although in the northern and eastern part it has deteriorated.

Cemetery. The old one is on the church site. The new one is about two kilometers from the town on the old site of the parish of San Vicente de Tocolana.⁶²

It will have about fifty meters per side.⁶³ Its fence is like that of the old buildings that were turned into hedges between the masonry. It adjoins the West with the general road; to the North, East and South with private land.

Estate. He had a rice field to the east of the church that measures about one hectare. Some years it was cultivated and others not paying the parish priest to the laborers. It adjoins the west with the street that separates it from the church; to the North, East and South with private farms.

Cordoba, p. 12

Site. It would have about two hectares for the convent, church, patio, orchard and outbuildings: all of which were under construction in 1898. Everything was isolated from the village farmhouse, although quite close to it.

Baggao, p. 12

The same must be said of Baggao, a separated town of Amulung like the previous one, Cordoba.

Iguig

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of James the Apostle. It has a good convent and a masonry church. A beautiful courtyard of the same with a brick

When scaled carefully, the dimensions appears about 50 meters by 50 meters.

⁶³ Ibid.

staircase of about sixty steps to go down to the Rio Grande and those who live on its banks go up to church functions.⁶⁴

Cemetery and chapels. The cemetery is regular and fenced with palisades.

Real estate properties. It does not have urban or rustic farms or any kind of generous saying.

Furniture and jewelry. The furnishings of the convent were quite ordinary and the same must be said of the ornaments and sacred church vessels.

Adjacent. Being in a high place in the town and surrounded by the parish buildings by public streets it is easy to determine everything that belongs to the church as it happens in Amulung and Alcala. Only that Igug has stronger and better fenced buildings.

Informants. The aforementioned Sr. Senen, who lived many years in this town dedicated to the tobacco industry.

Tuguegarao⁶⁵

Convent and church. Capital of Cagayan, dedicated to Saint Peter the Apostle. Magnificent church and convent.⁶⁶ The same stables and other accessories. All very well marked with a stone fence and the beautiful atrium of the church with iron railings.

Cemetery and Chapels. It has a beautiful cemetery of 200 meters⁶⁷ on each side, that is, of two hectares,⁶⁸ fenced with brick at a considerable distance from the town. It has the ermita or chapel of San Jacinto, made of masonry in the vicinity of the Dominican Fathers' school.⁶⁹

Real estate properties. It has a house built by his last parish priest, Fr. Bonifacio

In this book, Castillet serendipitously transcribed the former marker that read "En dos de Enero de 1894 se empezó el trabajo de este Cementerio y se finalizó en 29 de Septiembre de 1895, siendo Vicario y Cura Párroco de este pueblo el M.R.P. Fr. Bonifacio Corujedo y el Maestro director de esta obra Domingo Tamayao y Paccalagan." The same marker is now lost, but the rectangular outline of it can still be seen at the top of the archways of the Tuguegarao Cemetery portal.

⁶⁸ An error with the calculation of land. The actual 1895 fence built is 200 meters in length and width, hence totals into four hectares. See also Michael T. Tabao's "Necropolis: The History and Architecture of the Tuguegarao Cementerio Moderno as a Basis in its Conservation." (2022). Tabao showed a detailed architectural reimagining of the Tuguegarao City Catholic cemetery's brick portal and fence.

⁶⁹ Op. cit. Malumbres. "Cagayan." p. 379, 382.

Corujedo,⁷⁰ with a contract with the Spaniard Sr. Castillo. He had rented a house, I think the telegraph station. We do not know its payment monthly or annually. The current priest must be aware.

Furniture and ornaments. The convent had quite a lot of ordinary furniture. We have not heard any pondering ornaments of the church. It had an old organ like Lalloc's.

Adjacent. As has been said, all its ecclesiastical property is very well marked by its stone walls and iron railings.

Informant. Here resided the unfortunate Sr. Don Facundo Soto who registered all the property of the churches of Cagayan, charging 70 pesos for each registration. And here resides the Spaniard Don Senen Palao, who toured all the towns of Cagayan and several of Isabela for this purpose.

Malaueg⁷¹

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of San Raimundo de Peñafort. The church and convent are of masonry and old construction. The same is the atrium of the church and separate kitchen, etc. It will not go less than two hectares with the piece of land that such ancient towns had for a planting field.^{72,73}

Cemetery and Chapels. The cemetery is next to the church and is surrounded by masonry. Following the Matala river towards the mountains, about a league away, we find the remains of masonry⁷⁴ from the old mission of Santa Cruz de los Mandayas.

Real estate properties. We do not have news that it owns any rustic or urban farm in this sense.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings in the convent were quite ordinary; and the fairly regular sacred vessels and ornaments.

Adjacent. Standing on a high and well-fenced masonry it is easy to discern the ecclesiastical property of this town.

⁷⁴ This information on the old masonry ruins of Santa Cruz mission needs to be verified and explored.

Informants. The aforementioned Sr. Senen.

Mauanan

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of San Francisco. It is located next to and on the right bank of the Matala River. The convent is small and the church is also small and made of light materials. It has separate buildings for the kitchen, planting field, stables and patio as in the old towns and restored in the last decade of the 19th century. The convent is quite solid. It does not have as much land in its perimeter as other towns due to the scarcity of plains where the town is located.⁷⁵

Cemetery and Visitas. Its cemetery is surrounded by palisades and is proportionate to the smallness of the aforementioned Mauanan.

Real estate properties. It does not have rustic or urban farms that is profitable.

Furniture and ornaments. Both were very ordinary and proportionate to such a small parish.

Informants. The aforementioned Sr. Palao who took the data to register it in Tuguegarao in the property registry of said capital.

Tuao

Convent and church. Cagayan town, located on the left bank of the Chico river. It has a good parish house and church, both of masonry and beautifully rebuilt by the Dominicans Fathers, Fr. Deogracias Garcia⁷⁶ and Ildefonso Barba.⁷⁷ In addition to a good courtyard, this parish has separate buildings for the kitchen, stables, etc. and two kilns, one for lime and the other for bricks, built by the aforementioned Fr. Deogracias. The perimeter of the site of the church, convent and other separate buildings will not drop below two hectares.

Cemetery and Chapels. The cemetery is regular and proportionate to the town, surrounded by hedge.

Real estate properties. If the aforementioned ovens are still usable, they would be the only buildings that could make a profit, since that town builds lime and stone buildings.

Furniture and ornaments. The furnishings of the convent were quite regular, as were the ornaments of the church and sacred vessels.

Informants. Refer to the mentioned many times Sr. Senen Palau, a resident of Tuguegarao.

⁷⁵ Ibid. Another portion of the map shows the church grounds of Mauanan and with reference to the rectilinear road along the area.

⁷⁶ Op. cit. del Manzano. "Biografica." p. 1024.

⁷⁷ Ibid. p. 1140.

Patrons. It is under the advocation of the Holy Guardian Angels.

Enrile

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Nuestra Señora de las Caldas, on the left of the Grande river (Rio Grande de Cagayan). It has a good convent and church with its convenient separate buildings for the patio, kitchen, planting field, etc. And the land they occupy will not drop below two hectares.⁷⁸

Cemetery and Chapels. The cemetery is a regular square proportionate to the importance of the town and with a hedge fencing.

Real state properties. It has no urban or rustic farm of this kind.

Furniture and jewelry. The furnishings in the convent were quite ordinary. The same must be said of the jewels and sacred vessels of the church. It had a beautiful image of the Immaculate Conception and a beautiful float for her, acquired when Fr. Francisco Bueno⁷⁹ was the parish priest.

Adjacent. The ecclesiastical property is marked by the nameless streets that surround it.

Informants. The aforementioned Sr. Senen, the Rector and some other Fathers of the Colegio de Tuguegarao, who have been posted in Cagayan and may have seen him after the upheavals of the revolution, the Fathers said they can reach an agreement with Sr. Palao to shed more light on the properties of Cagayan and even of Isabela.

Solana

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan, located on the left bank of the Rio Grande, with the patronage of San Vicente Ferrer. It has a single-storey convent and a regular, provisional wooden church. The patio, kitchen and other separate buildings are proportionate to the importance of the town and attended to its recent foundation as it separated from Tuguegarao, from which it is separated by the Cagayan or Grande river. The perimeter will not be lower than two hectares as in the towns of any consideration.

Cemetery and Chapels. The cemetery is a regular square fenced palisade.

Real estate properties. It does not have any rustic or urban farm that is frugal in this sense.

⁷⁸ See also D. Julio de Ardanaz, D. Luis Fontana, and D. Felino Aguilar. "Itinerario de Tuguegarao a Enrile... en la campaña topográfica de 1892." Biblioteca Virtual de Defensa. Gobierno de España. (1892) This detailed map shows the church grounds of Enrile and with reference to the rectilinear road along the town's vicinity.

⁷⁹ Op. cit. del Manzano. "Biografica." p. 1075-1076.

Furniture and jewelry. The furnishings were rather ordinary, and so were the church ornaments and sacred vessels.

Adjacent. The streets that surround it mark the property of the church of this town.

Informants. Dominican Fathers from the Colegio de Tuguegarao can give minute details, who are near, and the same to the aforementioned Spaniard, Sr. Palao.

Peñablanca

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of San Jose. It was once a part of Tuguegarao and is located to the East on the bank of the Pinacanauan River. Its convent, church and others were small, temporary and made of light materials.

Cemetery and Chapels. The cemetery also had a provisional hedge fence.

Profitable properties. It did not possess anything interesting.

Furniture and jewelry. The convent had very little furniture and very few ornaments in the church.

Adjacent. On this point they will be able to inform the Dominicans Fathers from Tuguegarao, although at least they were marked by church assets in the streets and town square, as happens in almost all the towns of the Archipelago.

We say the same about the new parish of Cordoba, under the patronage of San Vicente Ferrer, and of Baggao, under the patronage of Santo Domingo de Guzman, whose detail we stopped recording when speaking of its parent "Amulung."

Informants. The mentioned religious and Sr. Senen.

Piat

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santo Domingo de Guzman, located next to the left bank of the Chico river. Its convent and church are regular and made of masonry, and the separate buildings are the same, as an old town.

Cemetery and Chapels. In addition to the old Cemetery attached to the church, it has another hedge fence. It has the ermita of the famous Nuestra Señora de la Visitación de Piat.⁸⁰ This Sanctuary has good ornaments and sacred vessels and above all a white suit, acquired in the time of the Dominican Fr. Santiago Capdevila⁸¹ and trained in early July 1898, a month before the Cagayan revolution.

⁸⁰ See Fr. Julian Malumbres, OP. "Historia de la Nuestra Señora de Piat." Manila: Tip. Linotype de Sto. Tomas. (1918)

⁸¹ Op. cit. Malumbres. "Cagayan." p.424.

Real estate properties. With this sanctuary being so celebrated, we do not know that it has any estate, or fruitful donation or legacy in the sense of the question.

Furniture and jewelry. There was nothing special about the furniture in the convent; and the same for the ornaments and vessels of the church. As for the Sanctuary, we have already indicated its specialty.

Adjacent. Being an old town with separate masonry buildings and surrounded by streets and the town square, it is easy to distinguish how much belongs to the church.

Informants. The often repeated Sr. Palao and Fathers of Tuguegarao.

Tabang

Convent and church. Town of Cagayan under the patronage of Santa Ines de Monte Policiano. Its convent, church, atrium and others are of the same construction and materials as those of the town of Piat. It is like the one next to the Chico river.

Cemetery and Chapels. In addition to the cemetery enclosed with masonry and attached to the church, it has another fenced with stakes or palisade.

Real estate properties. It does not own real estate that denotes anything.

Furniture and jewelry. The furniture of the parish house and ornaments and sacred vessels were common, as in the generality of the parishes of Cagayan.

Adjacent. We say what in the former town of Piat; and the same as for the informants.

Santo Niño

New town of Cagayan, made up of immigrant Ilocanos. Having been declared a parish in 1896, all its buildings were provisional, as has been said about Peñablanca and other new separations.

The same should be said of the furnishings of the convent and sacred ornaments and vessels.

Above all, we refer to Sr. Senen and Fathers of Tuguegarao.

Fr. Julian Malumbres

Property of the churches of Cagayan

Claveria

Convent, church, courtyard of the same, lots of both and cemetery.

Sanchez-Mira

The same, although the buildings were temporary.

Pamplona

Convent, church, patio, cemetery and church and convent grounds. To the North there are the masonry ruins of San Juan de Masi on a hill,⁸² about a kilometer away.

Apayao⁸³

The Dominican Corporation succeeded in restoring the old convent, 6000 pesos, according to accounts made by the last missionary Fr. Alfredo Colinas. In this territory there are the ruins of a convent, church, patio, and adjacent cemetery, according to its old use, both in Fotol, about four leagues from Abulug, and in Capinatan, about six. At this point, Father Colinas restored the Convent.⁸⁴

Abulug

Like Claveria, and also a beautiful planting field in which there were many coconuts, coffee trees, and cocoa, by its last parish priest, Fr. Jose Brugues between 1894 and 1898.

Aparri⁸⁵

Like Claveria, but it has an old cemetery next to the church and another built by Fr. Julian Malumbres in 1894 in the barrio of Santo Tomas. It also has the site of the old church with a camarin rented until 1898 by a Chinese who gave 40 pesos a month to the church.

Buguey⁸⁶

Convent, church, courtyard, and cemetery next to the church and another made by Fr. Juan Gomez around 1895.

Lalloc⁸⁷

Convent, church, patio, cemetery next to the church and another made by Fr. Pedro Linacero in 1896 towards the barrio of San Vicente.

Solana

Convent, church, courtyard, cemetery and adjoining modern towns.

Cordoba

Convent, church, patio, cemetery and adjacent towns of the newly created towns, as it was in 1897, and the same must be said of Peñablanca and Bagao, created in the same year.

Tuguegarao

Convent, church, patio, cemetery and spacious adjacent areas according to the great plans of the famous Fr. Antonio Lobato,⁹² who also made long and wide streets in the town. Father Corujedo also built a regular house belonging to the parish, although I understand that he paid for it with funds from the Vicariate, and not from the church.

Observation

There are still remains of the old buildings of San Jose de Cabicungan, near Claveria; from Sta. Maria Magdalena de Pata, near Sanchez-Mira; of San Vicente Ferrer, in Lalloc, called, San Vicente de Tocolana; from San Miguel de Nassiping, which was reestablished as an independent parish from Gattaran in 1896, from Santa Cruz de Gumpat near Malaueg.

Note:

We have left the following two towns.

Mauanan

Old convent, church, courtyard, cemetery and adjoining sites, restored in 1896.

Enrile

Convent, church, courtyard, cemetery and adjoining of modern towns.

Tuguegarao

In addition to what has been said, it has an ermita dedicated to San Jacinto, made of strong materials next to the school of the Dominican Fathers.⁹³ (It is something that had to be managed for the school, in compensation for the transfer of Convents in 1890 and the Apayaos' expenses made by Fr. Colinas), and the Sanctuary of Piat in compensation for what belongs to the order in the Cagayan Valley, and if they find it with the Piat parish, the better.

I, Fr. Isidro Rodriguez O.P. parish priest who went from August 1897 to 1898 of the parish of Santa Ana de Buguey, of the town of Buguey,⁹⁴ province of Cagayan, bishopric of Nueva Segovia: by virtue of the careful communication of yours, dated September 2 of the present year of 1911, I went on to the North to express the following:

In the town of Buguey, the following properties belonged to the church: 1.0 A masonry church, I estimate its dimensions to be about 50 meters long by 30 meters wide.

2.0 To the East of the church a convent or convent also made of masonry partly up to the roof and partly up to the first floor; it is in the form of 7; it is the same length as the church; wide, the narrowest part will be 15 meters, and where it forms the 7 which is where it joins the church will have 27 meters in length. In the space left by the 7 between the church and the convent is the sacristy and a little garden about 20 meters long by 12 meters wide.

3.0 To the south of the Church and convent and adjacent to them there is a courtyard that will be 60 meters wide by another 60 meters long. It is surrounded by a wall, but destroyed. Between this courtyard and the church, the passage of cavalry or carabaos was not allowed.

4.0 Behind the church and convent, that is, to the north of said buildings and adjacent to them there is a plot of land reserved for a garden, enclosed with split reeds and live tuba stakes: it will be 80 meters long by 60 wide. Throughout the entire length of the convent to the East and adjacent to it there is a little piece of land where the kitchen was, a little garden and the entrance to the convent: it will be 6 meters wide.

All these farms have the following limits: To the east the road to the sea, to the South a street, to the West a street, and to the North other streets, all unnamed, or I do not know their names.

5.0 To the east of the convent there is a masonry building about 10 meters long by another 10 meters wide reserved to store palay and corn. And to the north of this tambobo (or granary) there is a well with stone walls and a cogon roof: between these two lots and the convent passes the road that goes to the sea.

⁹³ This former school beside the ermita of San Jacinto was destroyed in World War II and the former site is now part of the Saint Paul University of the Philippines (SPUP) along Mabini St, Tuguegarao City, Cagayan.

⁹⁴ Op. cit. Jose. "Buguey."

6.0 To the West of the church and town and about two kilometers away there is a square area of about 90 meters each side dedicated for a cemetery, this is fenced with wooden stakes. All its surroundings were uncultivated terrain.⁹⁵

Of jewels, I do not have any knowledge; I only remember that there were chalices, goblets, clothes and other messages necessary for the celebration of Holy Mass and in all of its colors.

It is all that I can inform you on the matter.

May God take care of you for many years. Ocaña on November 29, 1911.

Ocaña October 16, 1911

Dear Father. I am happy to send you the following list of the antecedents that you wish to know and that, at present, I remember, as Parish Priest of Malaueg at the outbreak of the revolution.⁹⁶

I

(a) Town of Malaueg, Province of Cagayan.

(b) The extension of the site where the church and convent buildings are built would occupy approximately five hundred meters of North or South, and a hundred of East or West. The church that is erected on said land is rectangular in shape and will be about twenty meters long by five wide. The convent, also located on said site and adjacent to the church, has the shape of a hammer and will be about 15 meters long on the eastern part and on the southern part a little more or less, and wide on both sides of six or eight meters.

In the part to which the entrance of the church corresponds, there is the atrium of the same and it comes to have the shape of a square and it will be or measure about ten meters per side. (c) The boundaries of the land, the same as those of the church and convent are: to the North, the children's school, to the West, the forest, and to the South, with a field of about eighty meters long by about twenty wide on the banks of the river named Matalag and belonging to the church.

⁹⁵ Ibid. p. 337. Jose presented in his paper a sketch of the church compound of Buguey from Father Juan Gomez to Fr. Julian Malumbres in 1898.

⁹⁶ Op. cit. Jose. "Malaueg."

(d) The aforementioned land lacks a fence except for the atrium of the Church, which is made of masonry and the planting area whose fence was made of cane.

The Church and convent were made of masonry.

II

(1) Towards the northern part of the church at the exit of the town and about a kilometer away from it a little more or less is the cemetery that has almost the figure of a square and a half of about eighty and one hundred meters per side. The fence around it was made of light materials that were renewed, from time to time.

III

The Church had a sowing plant, which is mentioned earlier in the letter.

(e) and that the informant planted corn.

The sacred silver vessels belonging to the church and that I remember are: two chalices without a ciborium, a monstrance, some chrysmeras, and some vineyards, all of which were also gilded.

These are the antecedents that the least of his subjects can give him.

Dear Father. In response to his attentive office, I must tell you, there is the Mission Parish of Baggao, it has a cemetery surrounded by cane and an ermita. Later, the town seemed bad, the site of the ermita, and they burned a cane field and there they built the Church and a servant built the convent with wood ceded by the State. The church had a fence made of cane or palma brava, I believe. It had a monstrance and several chasubles and some clothes and belongings of its own. I do not know for sure, if the property of the land is precarious, imperfect, or complete. To find out perfectly and have truthful reports, you can go to Don Agustin Catolico and Don Rafael Catolico.
